O. D. Moore, minister
Liberty Baptist Church will observe HARVEST DAY THIS SUNDAY. This is an annual emphasis designed to help retire the church debt, and to help in capital improvement. A goal of $3,500.00 has been set by the finance committee, a goal almost reached last year. A letter to the membership with special "harvest Day Envelopes" was mailed this week.
Liberty Baptist had as their guests last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Horace E. Clay of Richmond. Mr Clay sang solos and led the congregational music. The church is seeking an associate in the field of Music and Education. The pastor is in attendance this week of the General Association of Baptist of Virginia at Alexandria. He will return late Thursday and will bring the messages Sunday. Sunday night, a film Concept of God is being shown as a part of the evening worship service. Friends of 40 Years Discuss Southside Electric's Influence

Geo. T. Lee W. R. Parker

...anker's Job: "To Make Farmers Happy"; ...outhside Electric Cooperative 'Plays Big Part'

...Virginia's most suc... ...ker has spent all his ... to keep farmers ...for the most part, he ...ed, as farmers in his ...are members of the ...Electric Cooperative ...ed.

...W. R. Parker. The ...ounties is Powhatan ...the rural area of his ...ers with rural people ...outside Virginia, and

...was being told when ...e a Director of the ...Electric Cooperative ...Mr. Parker's office ...of Powhatan last ...to chat."

...has been dropping ...Parker's office ever ...when Mr. Parker ...ation to establish ...the Bank of Powha...

...he last 15 years Mr. ...has been more im... ...Mr. Parker's inter... ...people, ...because, as ...R. Clerk of an average total assets. Mr. Lee was a interested in electricity and the use of electricity by farmers."

"Yes, that Southside Electric Cooperative has been one of the greatest blessings to our rural people," he said, and here again his natural philosophy came to light.

"You know I have always tried to make farmers happy, and electricity has helped — your system has done a wonderful job for the farmers in my section of the State," Mr. Parker said.

"It plays a big part and has contributed much in helping to make the farmer a happy man," he added, "and that's good."

Then Mr. Parker reminisced.

"You and I almost grew up together," he said to Mr. Lee.

40-Year Friendship

Mr. Parker came to Powhatan in 1923 from Cartersville in Cumberland County, and was the cashier and janitor too, he added; when the bank was established. The bank had $70,000 rural mail Carrier.

Today the bank has $18-million total assets with 15 employees and a branch office. Deposits come from all over the world, Germany, Fiji Islands, as an example. There are four depositors from Japan. They are not members of the armed forces stationed there. They are natives of Japan whose children are in college in New York State, but they do their banking in Powhatan at Mr. Parker's bank.

Mr. Parker has been with the Marine Corps in World War I, and with Mr. Lee both were officers in the Virginia Reserve Militia during World War II, the largest unit in Virginia. He was captain and Mr. Lee was his lieutenant. This unit became part of the Virginia State Guard after the war, before the guard was nationalized.

Mason and Ruritan

Mr. Parker is a "big" Mason, having held many of its top honors both local, district and statewide. He is a member of the Ruritan Club. For 20 years he has been an officer (yes, treasurer) of his May Memorial Baptist Church and is still superintendent of its Sunday School.

So the visit "just to chat," went on. Mr. Lee had his faith strengthened in the banking fraternity as he realized more than ever that it went hand-in-hand with the real service his rural electric system has to offer rural people in Virginia.

He realized, too, that this rural electric system has the unqualified support of such leading citizens as Mr. Parker, who appreciate its service to the community.

And as Mr. Parker put it—"... your Cooperative continues to keep up with the fast moving pace of agriculture . . . and is serving our farmers completely and efficiently . . . I hear no complaints about your service . . . and when you have line troubles caused by weather, you are prompt in making repairs."

"You help us keep the farmers happy," he concluded.
